Virology Dossier #1: From the Figure of the Plague Victim to the Criminalization of Life

We live under the reign of a century-old dogma, a framework so deeply ingrained in our minds that it seems natural, almost biological. This dogma revolves around a simplistic equation that we have all internalized:

Symptom → Invisible Pathogen → Transmission → Guilt and Dangerousness of the Sick Person → Isolation Rules

Then, in its industrial counterpart:

Pathogen → Sequencing → Patent → Mass Screening → Vaccine or Targeted Treatment

This mechanism did not emerge by chance. It draws on a very old anthropological fear, formalized in the 19th century when medicine shifted from a holistic view of health (the individual's constitution, environment, hygiene, and nutrition) to a reductionist and militaristic vision of life: germ theory.

While the initial intention may have seemed noble (protecting populations), this paradigm has become rigid, evolving into a pseudo-scientific construct. Even more seriously, it has become the driving force behind a major legal and societal transformation: the criminalization of the sick or the unvaccinated.

This video lays the groundwork for a series of investigations. Our objective is clear: to provide everyone, step by step, with the
